SVBC OFFICERS

President:
Vice-President:
Secretary: Marshall Hammond	434-1609
Treasurer: Marcia Lamphier	432-3312

UPCOMING MEETINGS

September 13 7:30pm
October 11 6:00pm

Monthly meeting at Luigi's.

Potluck Dinner and Slide show of The La Marmotte French Alps Ride.

This meeting will be held at Rich Harris's home, 101 Breezewood Terrace, Bridgewater. There will be a potluck dinner beginning at 6:00pm. Bring a dish to share with others and the beverage of your choice. The Club will provide dessert. After a brief meeting at 7:00, Rich will show a slide show of his summer La Marmotte ride in the French Alps. See his story elsewhere in the newsletter. To help with the set up for the meeting, please e-mail Rich at harrisra@jmu.edu to let him know if you are coming. Hope to see you there!

AUGUST MEETING MINUTES

The August 9th meeting of the SVBC was held in Luigi's backroom. There were six members present and a representative from Our Community Place, Jonathan. The Treasurer reported a balance of $8,103.17, less $1,100 still in the treasury for jerseys. There were 48 jerseys ordered by Club members. Thanks, Rich, for organizing the purchase, and Les for placing the order. Hopefully Club members will be able to wear them on the SVBC Century September 12th.

Members present, who also participated in the Bike Festival, brainstormed with Jonathan on the future of the Festival. All in attendance agreed it was a success. Approximately 75 riders participated, not including ride leaders. Although numbers haven't been completed, OCP will see $700-$800 profit. Thanks to all the volunteers and a special thanks to Dan and Betsy for all they did to help OCP run their first Festival. Ideas for next year include:

Purge Festival box so there are no old brochures and maps of rides (two conflicting brochures were passed out leading to some ride confusion).

Start rides from OCP and include a post-ride party and festival at OCP.

Change routes to include the north and western sections of the area.

Continue registration through Active.com or go with mail-in and same day.

Offer tee shirts.

Critical mass as a starting ride.

Any other suggestions? Please pass them on to Marshall and he will see that they are given to OCP.

There are lots of rides coming up in September and the end of August. The Ice Cream Ride is the 28th, leaving from Kline's at 10am and will be approximately 40 miles. The Club buys the ice cream.

August 29th is the Blue Ridge Extreme Ride from the Inn at Afton. This will benefit the Charlottesville Hospice and is new this year. Strap on your bionic legs - this ride has two really good climbs. Go to <http://www.blueridgeextreme.com/> for more information.

The SVBC Century needs volunteers, call Art to offer your help. Route marking will be Monday September 6th.

The meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,
Marshall Hammond
Secretary SVBC

SHENANDOAH VALLEY CENTURY

Our 22nd Annual Shenandoah Valley Century, which will be held on Sunday, September 12, is now only a couple weeks away. I hope you are looking forward to riding the Century, Half Century or Quarter Century. If you want to pre-register, you can get a form at area bicycle shops, from the SVBC website, or go to www.active.com.

Or, if you are not planning to ride, helpers are still needed for the day of the ride. Volunteers are still needed for following specialty positions:

Transportation Managers	(i.e., Sag drivers)	3
Traffic Engineers	(i.e., Parking lot attendants)	2
Communications Specialists	(i.e., Registration)	3
Dining Coordinators	(i.e., Rest stop help)	2
Administrative Assistant	(i.e., Gopher)	1

Let me know if you can help in any of these endeavors (433-9247) or fovarg@adelphia.net. Ask friends and family if they can help.

Also, we are in need of two cell phones for use during the day of the Century in order to be able to communicate with the checkpoint. If you can help us out here, please call me.

The Workers' Century, when we mark the roads, will be on Monday, September 6. Meet at 9:00am at Wildwood Park in Bridgewater. All are welcome, whether you volunteer the day of the ride or not.

Again, please don't forget to bring baked goods for end-of-the-ride treats. Deliver to Shelter #11 in Hillandale the morning of the 12th, or to Art's house the day before.

See you at the Century.

Art Fovargue

SMBC NEWS AND HAPPENINGS

La Marmotte (Part One) – A Ride in the French Alps

By Rich Harris

Each year thousands of European bicyclists flock to the small French village of Bourg d'Oisans, at the base of Alpe d'Huez, to participate in the La Marmotte bicycle ride. This one-day ride of 175 kilometers (109 miles) and over 5,000 meters (16,400 feet) of elevation gain climbs over four of the Tour de France's famous Cols (peaks). The majority of the route is a 160 kilometer (100 mile) circuit traversing the Cols, Croix de Fer (the peak above the more famous Col de Glandon), Telegraphe, and Galibier. The ride finishes by climbing the 14 kilometers (8.5 miles) and famous 21 switchback turns of Alpe d'Huez. I was fortunate to be able to participate in this year's La Marmotte on July 3 with three friends from Holland. The following is the first of two articles about our adventure.

On Monday June 28 we made the 10-hour drive from Holland to the French village of Rochetallier, 8 kilometers from Bourg d'Oisans. We arrived in the late afternoon, organized the camping trailer we had rented for the remainder of the week and marveled at the peaks of the Alps from the campground's pool. The campground was full of bicyclists, primarily from Holland, who like our group had come to the area to get in some training rides before the la Marmotte's start on Saturday. I was the only rider from the United States in the campground. Our group decided to climb one of the peaks on the la Marmotte each day during the week, so we would know what to expect on Saturday. All of these rides would be out and back routes, which meant we would climb each mountain from both sides.

On Tuesday we were eager to ride after Monday's long day in the car. In the morning we climbed the 32 kilometers (20 miles) with 1,350 meters (4,425 feet) of elevation gain from Bourg d'Oisans (altitude 719 meters/2,360 feet) to the top of Col Croix de Fer (altitude 2,068 meters/6,785 feet). After snacks at the restaurant on the top of the peak we headed down a few kilometers and turned on the road to the Col de Glandon (altitude 1,924 meters/6,315 feet). The peak was only two kilometers and a gentle climb after the turn. We then headed steeply down for approximately 20 kilometers (12 miles) to the small village of St Alban (elevation unknown) where we refilled our water bottles and headed back to the top of the Glandon. The climb was steady with pitches ranging from 8-15%. While steep, this was my favorite climb of the trip. The road was very scenic traveling first through small villages, then forests and finally alpine meadows with huge vistas. We could see the peak of the Glandon long before we got there. After more snacks at the top we headed down to our campsite 25 kilometers (16 miles) away.

On Wednesday we drove our cars to La Grave (elevation 1,481 meters/4,860) at the base of the Col de Lautaret (altitude 2,057 meters/6,750 feet). We climbed the 11 kilometers (7 miles) with 576 meters (1,890 feet) of elevation gain to Lautaret, which is on the side of the main road from Grenoble to Briançon. It is very developed and not that attractive. It was a relief to turn off this road and begin the 9 kilometer (6 miles) climb with 585 meters (1,920 feet) of elevation gain to the top of Col de Galibier (altitude 2,642/8,670 feet). This would be the highest point of our ride. The landscape at the top was completely void of trees and still had snowdrifts on both sides of the road. You could see Mount Blanc, the tallest mountain in Europe, almost 100 miles away. While the sky was cloudless and the sun was bright, the temperature was 20 degrees cooler than the 75 degree F temperatures in the valley below. Our group then descended 17 kilometers (11 miles) and 1,200 vertical meters (3,940 feet) to the village of Valloire (elevation 1,430 meters/4,700 feet) where we stopped for lunch in a small café. After lunch we retraced our route climbing over the Galibier one more time and returning to our cars at La Grave. The climb up either side of the Galibier was the most challenging climb of the trip because of both the length (approximately 20 kilometers/12 miles on either side) and elevation gain (1,200 meters / 3,940 feet) and steepness (averaging 9% with multiple grades between 12-15%).

On Thursday we decided to climb Alpe d'Huez. This is a climb I had hoped to climb ever since I began riding my bicycle seriously in 1995. It was like a dream come true to actually be on the mountain. Each member of our group had butterflies in their stomachs as we arrived in Bourg d'Oisans, at the base of the climb. The climb was like no other climb I had done before. We were told the overall grade is 8 % which is the same as Reddish Knob in our area. Unlike Reddish Knob, which has a constant grade, the grades of Alpe d'Huez were constantly changing. The climb begins with a 14 % grade just before the first switchback turn. This and one other grade at the village of d'Huez ten kilometers into the climb are the steepest parts of the climb. Just before this second steep section the climb actually levels out to only 4 % where it passes a beautiful chapel and small park. As you pass through each switchback the climb also levels off slightly. The final kilometer of the climb, as you enter the village, is very gentle. All this made for very interesting climbing. I was constantly changing gears and speeds. Add to this beautiful scenery, a steady flow of cars, lots of other bicyclists in both directions, signs at each switchback listing the name and date of past Alpe d'Huez Tour de France stage winners and it was easy to see why Alpe d'Huez has such allure. I climbed the 14 kilometers (8.6 miles) and 1,081 vertical meters (3,550 feet) in one hour and 10 minutes. Humbling when you think that Lance did it in less than 40 minutes! The village itself was somewhat of a let down. It was a very touristy and developed ski town. Still an exciting place to be. We spent the afternoon exploring and then rode down the mountain in the evening.

On Friday rather than climb the Col du Telegraphe, we decided to rest. We spent the morning exploring Bourg d'Oisans and the afternoon hiking around our campsite and getting ready for the la Marmotte ride in the morning. I will write more about the actual ride in a future newsletter.

If you are interested in hearing more about the la Marmotte ride and seeing pictures, I will be showing a slide show at the club's October 11 meeting, which will be a 6:00 PM potluck dinner at my home. Details are listed elsewhere in this newsletter. Hope you can join us.

WANNABES

Many of us are avid riders, but can't hang with the fast dogs. This monthly social ride is for you! It will be an opportunity to improve your skills and strength by riding with some experienced people. The rides will generally be flat and of varying lengths (usually 15 to 25 miles) depending on participant experience. No one will be dropped. Our goal is to have fun while we gain experience. Unless otherwise noted in the monthly ride schedule we will meet on the 3rd Sunday at 9:00 am to avoid the hot weather. Call Scott Ripley (248-5810) for more information.
